Eating Good in the Gayborhood Tour Hand Out (Updated 8/15)

Jamonera (105 S. 13th St.)
Marcie Turney & Valerie Safran opened this wine Spanish restaurant and wine bar in 2012. They now own 7 different restaurants on 13th between Chestnut & Locust. Jamonera is known for featuring one of the largest sherry lists in the country.

Lolita (106 S. 13th Street)
Lolita is another Turney and Safran restaurant, but this time the focus is Mexican food. According to Lolita’s website, the restaurant won Best Margarita in Philadelphia in 2013 and underwent major renovations in 2014. Reservations accepted!

Barbuzzo (110 S. 13th Street)
Turney and Safran opened this Mediterranean restaurant in 2010. After it opened, Barbuzzo was nominated for multiple Best New Restaurant Awards. Reservations accepted!

Zavino (112 S. 13th St.)
This Italian restaurant offers tasty salads and pastas, but it is best known for its pizzas. Customers love the meaty Joey pizza and the whole-wheat Stache pizza (which is only offered at the University City location.)

Capogiro (119 S. 13th St.)
Capogiro opened in December of 2002. The gelato is made from local and sustainable ingredients, and it has nearly half the fat of typical ice cream.

El Vez (121 S. 13th Street)
El Vez is one of 22 restaurants owned by Stephen Starr in Philadelphia. The restaurant serves delicious Mexican food with a vibrant ambiance. Reservations accepted!

Sampan (124 S. 13th St.)
Sampan offers modern Asian street flavors. The décor of the restaurant feels avant-garde with a grass-inspired, lime-green lighting scheme. Sampan is also unique because it features a year-round outdoor graffiti behind the main restaurant.

Graffiti Bar (124 S. 13th St.)
Graffiti Bar is a snug, year-round outdoor bar with graffitied walls serving up Pan-Asian eats & cocktails. There’s a trick to find it! The entrance is hidden around the corner in the alleyway.

Charlie was a Sinner (131 S. 13th St.)
Charlie was a Sinner is a vegetarian restaurant and cocktail bar. The interior of the restaurant has a hipster vibe, and patrons rave about the chickpea fries and imitation crab cakes.

Insomnia Cookies (135 S. 13th St.)
Insomnia offers cookies, cookie cakes, and cookiewiches (which are like ice cream sandwiches). The chain delivers cookies until 3 AM!

Rosewood (1302 Walnut St.)
Rosewood is a craft cocktail bar. The elegant interior sets the tone for this trendy hotspot. To get inside, simply go through Woody’s
Woody’s (202 S. 13th St.)
Known as Philly’s quintessential gay bar, Woody’s is often visitors’ first stop in The Gayborhood. The space includes a traditional bar and a coffee room on the first floor in addition to a cyber bar and free Internet access on the second floor.

indeblue (205 S. 13th St.)
indeblue offers Indian food in a trendy and hip atmosphere. It’s an upscale restaurant as it offers a chef’s tasting menu in addition to a la carte options.

Green Eggs Café (212 S. 13th St.)
There are multiple Green Eggs Café locations, but all are famous for truly decadent and indulgent Red Velvet Pancakes. This is a great breakfast or brunch spot, but come early because it’s packed on the weekends!

Voyeur (1221 Saint James Street)
Voyeur is a gay bar that is lauded for featuring a live DJ and for staying open until 3:30 am, which is the latest closing time of any bar in the area. It also hosts drag shows throughout the year.

Vedge (1221 Locust St.)
Vedge offers one of the most unique fine dining experiences in Philadelphia. The restaurant uses no animal products and innovatively uses ingredients to appeal to vegetarians, vegans, and omnivores alike.

U Bar (1220 Locust St.)
U Bar is another gay bar in the Gayborhood.

More Than Just Ice Cream (1119 Locust St.)
This restaurant is ironically known for it’s sweets—including ice cream—but it also offers regular food. It even delivers to defined areas of Philadelphia. Customers rank the Mile-High Apple Pie very highly.

Cake and the Beanstalk (1112 Locust St.)
Cake and The Beanstalk is a coffee shop with character. It features funky décor and quotations from Jack and the Beanstalk on the walls.

Garces Trading Company (1111 Locust St.)
This restaurant serves up Western European cuisine with a focus on Italian, Spanish, and French foods. Chef Jose Garces is one of just a few American Chefs to hold the title of Iron Chef, and this expertise is reflected in his food. Accepts reservations!

Maoz Vegetarian (1115 Walnut St.)
Maoz Vegetarian is a fast service restaurant serving authentic falafel and freshly made vegetarian food.
